He is the same villian who, some time ago, coolly shot out the brains William Demonbreun, a returned confederate soldier, and who escaped trial through the strange workings of the Brownlow despotism. He is far-famed as a brawler and disturber, and was a disgrace to the community in which he lived. Harris is not much better. He sold supplies to the Confederate army until the It was reported yesterday that a company of militia would leave here for Ashand City to day, but we were assured by a militia officer that this statement was incorrect. A more cold-blooded murder never beore stained the annals of Cheatham county; but this is only a forerunner of what is to come. If Brownlow and his militia are to be sustained, more blood must flow, more peacable, quiet and unoffending citizens must be sacrificed for daring to entertain their own opinions, and the reign of error now inaugurated in some portions of the State must spread to its every county, and to every home and fireside. > Some of Our Old Things Comine BACK.-We hail with great pleasure the return of all of our once familiar objects, torn from us by the rude shock of war, and pride we felt when we saw the well-known and often tried Lebanon flour in the hands of our merchants yesterday. It is the same of "seven and six," with that cream tint and satin finish which seems peculiar to this favorite brand, and we are the volumes for the indomitable energy and industry of our State. We learn that the demand for this flour for shipment to New York is as great as ever. It was in that city, where it outranks all other brands, that a riot occurred amongst the bakers, the result of their eagerness to get it. The main depot, in this city, for this flour is the corner of College and Broad streets, Messrs, Geo. C. Allen & Co's.

The St. Louis Democrat of the 2d says:

The river is falling slowly, and there are

"The river is rising, but more slowly," says the St. Paul Press of Friday. "The iver rose five inches in the 24 hours preceding eight o'clock, P. M. yesterday, It is now higher by one inch than it has been since 1859, and is still coming up like a big pot of yeast," says the Burlington Hawkeye of Saturday. It is rising steadily here, say we, and it is pretty high, with twenty-five feet to Cairo, but we don't expect to see skiffs navigating the streets this year. The apper Illinois is declining, and he Missouri is steadily expanding. The weather is hot-intensely hot. Thermome er in the shade 98° in town, and 104° in the shade on a steamboat at the wharf. The Boatmen's Association yesterday increased the rates to Vicksburg to same as New Orleans rates. No change to Memphis or way points, the packet company retaining the privilege of making their own rates and terms. So it is with the Illinois, Keokuk and St. Paul lines, and rates to Missouri river are open. The Mississippi "is falling at Memphis. CLARKSVILLE AND
